FOREWORD

We proudly present the 1994 edition of The Official Catholic Directory. In order to consistently maintain the integrity and credibility of the information presented we again wish to cordially thank all of the ecclesiastical authorities and diocesan officials involved for their cooperation, participation and teamwork.

This past year we had the privilege and honor of presenting His Holiness Pope John Paul II with a copy of the 1993 edition of The Official Catholic Directory. On the opposite page is a picture of His Holiness signing another copy of The Official Catholic Directory as a gracious memento for us. We placed this Directory in our library on display as a keepsake for the employees of our company and the staff who work on the Directory.

The 1994 issue of the Directory features a new alphabetical index of institutions providing the ability to track and locate Catholic facilities and organizations. A key to religious initials has been added and a subscription now includes The Official Catholic Directory Supplement. The Supplement, in addition to including revisions and updates not contained in the main volume, will include enhanced graphs and statistics and a list of Dioceses and Archdioceses in the world.

We wish to assure you that our goal is to continuously strive for a high degree of excellence and to provide functional improvements to The Official Catholic Directory. For 177 years The Official Catholic Directory has long been considered a detailed and thorough portrait of the Catholic Church in the United States and it is our honor to carry on that tradition.

The Seal of P.J. Kenedy & Sons
The Official Catholic Directory

SIGNIFICANCE:

The shield is the central part of a heraldic device, which is more commonly known as a coat of arms. If that shield is enclosed within a body of text, or other type of surrounding configuration, the device becomes know as a seal, yet it is the shield portion of the design that is the most important, and that which is described technically as the blazon. As the design is examined, it must be remembered that by heraldic tradition the design is described (blazoned) as if being done by the bearer with the shield being worn on the arm. Therefore, the terms dexter and sinister will be reversed as the design is viewed from the front.

The shield of the seal for The Official Catholic Directory has been designed to reflect the character and heritage of this publication of P.J. Kenedy & Sons.

The shield is in two major portions. The right half (sinister impalement) is composed of the blue field on which are seen a silver tree, two candles (in silver or white) in their candleholders (of gold or yellow) and an open book, edged in gold and with a red bookmark. These symbols have been used over the years as the sign of the P.J. Kenedy and Sons publishing organization. These are the traditional symbols of knowledge and learning, so appropriate to a publisher.

The other side of the shield (the dexter impalement) is composed of a silver (white) field on which is seen a red cross, throughout, and a gold eagle. These symbols, combined with the field of the sinister impalement, are represented in the color of the flag of the United States of America and the eagle, the symbol of the United States. The cross represents Christianity and all of this combines to signify that The Official Catholic Directory annually reports on the Catholic Church in the United States.

The shield is surrounded by a laurel wreath of excellence and is enclosed within the legend that states the name of the company, the name of the publication and date (1817) of its founding.

Quality in design, material, colour and detail. We're now celebrating the 25th anniversary of the world famous SN-design "Tree of Life" that, in all liturgical colours, has served so well in so many big and small churches in the USA

It was a sensation at that time:
"Chasuble and stole, an integral part of celebration, giving expression to each gesture of the celebrant. Perfection in design and material".
Today, 25 years later, it's still available and it brings us to say:
"SN, Timeless Quality".

REVELATIONS BEGIN WITH INSPIRATION. A FRESH APPROACH. A NEW PERSPECTIVE.

THEY FEED ON KNOWLEDGE. AN UNDERSTANDING OF THE CULTURE, THE HISTORY, THE NEEDS OF YOUR PARISH. COUPLED, OF COURSE, WITH THE LITURGICAL GUIDELINES ESTABLISHED BY THE VATICAN COUNCIL.

THEN COMES THE DRAMATIC UNVEILING. A BLOCK OF WOOD. A PIECE OF STONE. AN EMPTY CANVAS. A HOUSE OF WORSHIP TRANSFORMED INTO A CELEBRATION OF TODAY'S FAITH.

AT RUDOLPH N. ROHN STUDIOS, WE BELIEVE IN REVELATIONS. AND THE SPIRITUAL IMPACT THEY CAN HAVE ON YOUR COMMUNITY. FOR MORE INFORMATION, PLEASE GIVE US A CALL. AND LET US OPEN YOUR EYES TO NEW OPPORTUNITIES.

Professional wireless at affordable pricing

Isn't it time to discover how a wireless system is supposed to perform? Now you can have professional audio quality with television broadcaster's reliability at an affordable price. Unsurpassed reliability and total freedom from RF "drop-outs" was designed into the AX-20 true-diversity, dual-receiver system.

The advanced design of the American-made AX-20 system provides superb audio while virtually eliminating RF problems, assuring professional results every time. A special "dual-mode squelch" in the receiver prevents the AX-20 from causing unwanted noise bursts even when the transmitter is out of range or turned off!

Experience the clean, clear, natural sounding audio made famous by Vega. The AX-20 comes equipped with Vega's DYNEX®III advanced audio-processing system, consistently chosen by sound professionals who use wireless microphones for television and film production, live performance, and other demanding applications.

Vega's engineers added many other professional features to the AX-20, such as an RF signal-strength meter, front-panel monitor output, external squelch control, transmitter "low-battery" indicator, and single-rack-space receiver packaging with an internal AC power supply, to name a few.

Join the audio professionals who demand, and receive, the best in performance, service, and support. Vega's new AX-20 provides all of this, plus year-in, year-out reliability, at an affordable price.

Call Vega's 24-hour automated FaxBack system at 1-800-274-2017 for additional information on the AX-20 system or call 1-800-877-1771 today for full details. Outside the US, call (818) 442-0782.

INSPIRED CREATIONS FOR CONTEMPORARY LITURGY

NOT BECAUSE IT'S AMERICAN —BECAUSE IT'S THE BEST

When St. Nazarius Roman Catholic Church in Ober-Roden, Germany, restored their sanctuary to its original splendor, they demanded the highest quality in every facet. From a state-of-the-art computerized lighting system, to imported marble flooring, the church was renewed from top to bottom with the finest materials. To replace their pipe organ they also wanted the best. They required dependability. They demanded value. They chose Allen.

Every Allen is crafted with the finest materials and state-of-the-art technology. Allen makes more parts in-house at the world's largest classical organ manufacturing facilities. The result: higher quality at a lower price. For you, the convenience and economy of U.S. manufacturing and a nation-wide sales and service network offer additional value.

The best choice in organs throughout the world is an even better choice in America.

Divine Mercy Treatment Centers:

COMPREHENSIVE PSYCHIATRIC CARE FOR CATHOLICS

People turn to the Church for counsel and help in difficult situations. Some cases, however, do not yield to pastoral counsel alone — the grief that does not pass in time, suicidal or homicidal ideation, irrational or addictive thinking and behavior, or an inability to cope with daily life. They may need psychological expertise to overcome their problems. Yet, as someone involved in pastoral ministry, you may be concerned that the help they receive does not undermine their belief in God and relationship with the Church.

Divine Mercy Treatment Centers offer the finest pyschological treatment integrated with pastoral care. Our therapy-rich environment supports the Catholic faith and vocations of our patients. Anyone — regardless of their religious affiliation — can find great benefit for their life at a Divine Mercy Treatment Center.

We are available to assist you in your ministry to God's people by consultation or referrals. For more information, call 1-800-MERCY-4-U. We give free assessments and work with prospective clients to determine insurance coverage.

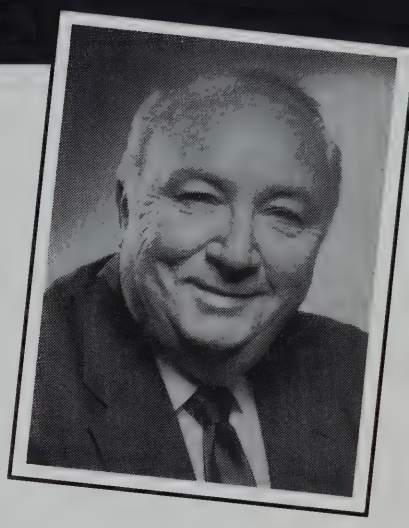
OUR LONGEVITY IN THE FUND-RAISING BUSINESS, THE SUCCESS OF THE CAMPAIGNS WE DIRECT, AND CLIENT SATISFACTION ARE THE BENCHMARKS OF THE SERVICES WE RENDER.

Experience Counts!

Hank Brandt Associates, Inc. knows. We have conducted more than 70 annual diocesan-wide appeals which have consistently produced better than seventy percent participation against an average that reveals only 4 out of 10 Catholic households contribute nationally.

With 35 years in business as fund-raising consultants, we have an established record of success that is second to none. By choice, Hank Brandt Associates has retained a selected staff over the years. Why? We believe successful fund raising is a highly personalized service reliant upon informing and motivating potential contributors to want to give and providing direction that encourages a high level of generous participation.



BRUCE BRANDT

Hank Brandt Associates is a Hands On Company!

We are client oriented. Our professional interest has always been concentrated on the quality of service rather than volume. A principal of Hank Brandt Associates will be involved with your particular project from the point of initial inquiry throughout the entire campaign. Our business philosophy dictates that selling a fund-raising campaign is only the first step in doing business with a new client — not the last.

Results with an Added Dimension

Nothing means more to a client than to know that the best possible results were attained. This is not determined purely by statistics, but by a realization that the campaign was carried out in the proper manner. It happens when no one involved was embarrassed; every prospective contributor was given an opportunity to participate; the publicity was well planned and in good taste; and the support the cause received was most gratifying.

Combining generations of experience in pipe organ craftsmanship with advanced digital reproduction technology, Zimmer Custom and Combination Organs provide the best of both worlds.

With the combined resources of real pipes from the W. Zimmer & Sons pipe organ factory, cabinetry specifically crafted to fit your space, and high-resolution electronic pipe simulation circuitry, Zimmer creates what many believe are the best combination organs available, at a price much lower than you might expect.

We are proud to be a leader in the organ industry as we introduce this new line of instruments. While we could print volumes of technical specifications and letters of praise, we simply say this:

We can't tell you how good these organs sound.
You must listen for yourself.

Welcome Back, Sister!

Over the years Guest House has provided a means for more than 5,000 priests, deacons, brothers and seminarians suffering from alcoholism and other chemical dependencies to maintain a sober life.

And now that same helping hand is available for women religious.

We've taken what we've learned in the nearly four decades of successfully treating the Catholic clergy and created a program exclusively to treat Catholic women religious. The program operates from our lovely Lake Orion campus, separate from the men's program which is provided in Rochester, Minnesota.

Guest House FOR WOMEN RELIGIOUS

Our mission is to see that every alcoholic or chemically-dependent sister who enters Guest House is returned to her regular responsibilities, and to a successful and meaningful life filled with sobriety.

Rambusch Continuity.

Cathedral of the Sacred Heart,
Richmond Virginia
Most Reverend Walter F. Sullivan,
D.D., Bishop
Reverend Thomas G. Miller, Rector
Aquino & Winthrop, Architects
John C. Buscemi,
Liturgical Designer
Viggo B. Rambusch,
Lighting Designer

Edwin, Viggo B. and Martin Rambusch

Three generations devoted to a Cathedral's evolving needs. Rambusch's 62 year history with the Cathedral began in 1930 with design and execution of its decorative scheme and with lantern lighting. In 1992, its interior cleaned and restored, Rambusch designed a multi-level lighting system (with 26 channels grouped into 4 basic functions at 12 pre-set levels)...and provided Rambusch standard and custom fixtures to function for its evolving need. In these 3 generations, Rambusch had added stained glass windows, recessed lighting and sanctuary liturgical rearrangement. It is a typical Rambusch story of constancy, of continuous participation...and of a unique ability to combine technology and tradition within and for the creation of a total religious environment.

A USER'S GUIDE FOR THE OFFICIAL CATHOLIC DIRECTORY

Each year the editors of the Official Catholic Directory seek added ways of serving their subscribers. Although the book may never answer every question, this is the conscientious goal; its format, arrangement and editorial features are directed toward the convenience and needs of the public.

OFFICIAL CATHOLIC DIRECTORY GLOSSARY

Abbot
The superior of an autonomous community of men religious. He has general and sacramental jurisdiction over his community. The head of a prominent monastery or a congregation consisting of several monasteries is an archabbot.

Advocate
An ecclesiastical advocate is someone approved by Church authority to safeguard the rights of a party in a canonical process by arguments regarding the law and the facts of the case. [Cf. c. 1481 and CLSA Comm., p. 967]

Apostolate
Apostolate is the mission of Christ and participation in it. Its object is to bring Christ to others, its goal is the greater glory of God, its scope is universal. The work is carried out by every human agency by which the life of grace may be given or increased in the soul. A mandate from the Church is essential to the Catholic apostolate.

Archbishop
A bishop of a main, or metropolitan diocese in an ecclesiastical province. The term is equivalent to metropolitan in the Western Church. It may also be granted to other ordinaries and non-residential bishops, and to the ordinary of a diocese outside a province.

Auditor
An official of a diocesan court, who gathers evidence and testimony and draws up a record of an ecclesiastical case.

Bishop
A bishop, by divine institution, carries on the work of the apostles. By reason of episcopal consecration, he shares in the triple apostolic function of teacher of doctrine, priest of sacred worship, and minister of church government. Bishops are responsible for the pastoral care of their dioceses. In addition, bishops have a responsibility to act in council to guide the Church. The term exarch is used in Eastern-rite churches.

The bishop to whom a particular or local church is entrusted is called a diocesan bishop or a residential bishop. All other bishops receive Titular Sees over which they exercise no pastoral authority.

When the pastoral needs of a diocese or archdiocese warrant, an auxiliary bishop may be assigned to aid the residential bishop in governing his diocese. An auxiliary bishop is assigned when the residential bishop needs assistance in carrying out his duties because of ill health, advanced age, or amount of work. An auxiliary bishop does not have the right of succession within his diocese.

In special circumstances, such as the advanced age or ill health of a diocesan bishop, a coadjutator bishop may be appointed to assist the principal bishop of a diocese. Coadjutator bishops have the right of succession in the diocese of their appointment from the time the See becomes vacant upon the death or retirement of its bishop.

Brother
A man who is a member of a religious order, but is not ordained or studying for the priesthood.

Cana Conference
A Catholic family movement, originally designed to aid married couples and families in their spiritual and interpersonal relationships. The program is now divided into Pre-Cana, for couples engaged to be married, and Cana Conferences, programs for married people.

Censor Librorum
A theologian empowered by a bishop to judge a book's soundness in regard to Church teaching before publication.

Chancellor
The office of the chancellor (or the chancery) evolved from the practice in the early Church of appointing an official to sign and preserve the letters of the bishop. The first function of the chancellor in the present day is gathering, arranging, and safeguarding the acts of the diocesan curia. Dispensations and other official documents also originate from the chancery. In many dioceses, the chancellor continues to exercise ordinary jurisdiction as delegated by the diocesan bishop. He or she may be assisted by a separate official, the vice-chancellor.

Chapter
The general chapter of a religious order is an assembly of elected or appointed members and provincials. General chapters are convened for the election of officers, amendments to the constitution, and discussion and legislation of matters of concern to members and the order as a whole.

A provincial chapter conducts elections and handles legislation on a provincial level. The assembly is comprised of superiors and representatives of the religious.

A chapter of canons is a group of diocesan priests, appointed by the bishop of a diocese, with assigned authority or responsibilities.

College of Cardinals
The College of Cardinals is made up of the cardinals of the Church, who advise the Pope, assist in the central administration of the Church, head the various curial offices and congregations, administer the Holy See during a vacancy, and elect a new Pope. There are three ranks in the College of Cardinals, corresponding to the historical origins of cardinals in the Roman Catholic Church. All cardinals are bishops, but their rank within the College of Cardinals is characterized by one of the hierarchical ranks of bishop, priest, or deacon. Cardinals are given honorary title to churches in the city of Rome. [CF. c. 350; CLSA Comm., pp. 288-289]

1. Cardinal Bishops
There are two types of Cardinal Bishops: 1) those appointed by the Pope as titular bishops to one of the six suburban dioceses of Rome, and 2) Eastern-rite Patriarchs who are heads of Sees with apostolic origins that have been assigned to the College of Cardinals.

2. Cardinal Priests
Heads of Sees outside the city of Rome are assigned a "titular church," one of the churches in Rome. They have no pastoral authority over their titular church.

3. Cardinal Deacons
Cardinals of diaconal rank are bishops without Sees who head the various departments, offices, congregations, committees, and the Secretariat of State of the Roman Curia.

Confraternity of Christian Doctrine [CCD]
A lay organization established for religious education throughout a person's entire life. The term is currently used to describe Catholic parish-based religious education of children from kindergarten through high school. At the diocesan level, the offices are now more commonly known as offices of religious education or Christian formation. Nationally, the confraternity's religious education component has been taken over by the USCC's Department of Education. It still exists as a separate entity under the USCC Administrative Board, with responsibility for licensing religious and spiritual literature.

Consolidated School
The term, as used in the Directory, may refer to a school that takes students from more than one parish, or a school that was formed by the consolidation of two or three other schools. In both cases, it is a means of keeping a Catholic school in a given area open by taking students from the surrounding areas, regardless of parish boundaries.

Convent
In common usage, the term refers to a house of women religious. Originally, it referred to a building where members of religious institutes lived, and was not restricted to communities of women.

Cursillo
The cursillo de cristianidad, or "little course in Christianity," is a three-day program for achieving spiritual renewal or spiritual awakening. It seeks to convey a new sense of individual and organized apostolic action. The program, conducted by priests and laypeople, consists of a three-day weekend focused on prayer, study, and Christian action, and a follow-up program known as the post-cursillo.

Deacons
The diaconate is the first order or grade in ordained ministry. Its origins are in early apostolic times, when deacons preached and baptized under the direction of the presbyters or bishops. Any man who is to be ordained to the priesthood must first be ordained as a transitional deacon. Deacons serve in the ministry of liturgy, of the word, and of charity.

In 1967, Pope Paul VI reinstituted the Permanent Diaconate for men who do not plan to become ordained priests. Although men ordained as permanent deacons are sometimes referred to as "married deacons," the permanent diaconate is open to both married and unmarried men, with the understanding that after ordination, they may not marry even after the death of a spouse. Under the authority of the diocesan bishop, they perform the same functions as the transitional deacons while, at the same time, retaining their roles in society as family and business men.

Dean/Vicar Forane
The title of a priest appointed by the bishop to aid him in administering the parishes in a certain vicinity, called a "deanery, or "vicariates forane." The function of a dean, or vicar forane, involves promotion, coordination, and supervision of the common pastoral activity within the deanery or vicariate.

Defender of the Bond
A member of a diocesan tribunal, either a cleric or a lay person, holding a graduate degree in canon law, who is appointed by the diocesan bishop for cases concerning the nullity of sacred ordination or the nullity or dissolution of the marriage bond. The defender of the bond is responsible for a review of the evidence, scrutiny of the briefs, examination of witnesses, and maintenance of proper procedures during the trial. The defender also deals with some situations concerning the content of the litigation rather than the legal procedures.

Diocesan Consultors
An advisory council of diocesan priests, as appointed by a diocesan bishop, that assists in the administrative affairs of the diocese.

Diocesan Curia
The personnel and offices assisting the diocesan bishop in directing the pastoral activity, administration, and the exercise of judicial power of his diocese. The curia includes among its officers laity and religious as well as clergy. Principal officers of a diocesan curia are the vicar general of the diocese, the chancellor, officials of the diocesan tribunal, examiners, consultors, auditors, the promoter of justice and the defender of the bond.

Diocese
The standard term for a territorial division of the Church, entrusted to a bishop who rules in his own name as local ordinary, and not as a delegate of another. The chief diocese of a province is an archdiocese. It is headed by an archbishop. A diocese is usually limited to a definite territory so that it comprises all the faithful who inhabit that territory. [Cf. cc. 369 and 372, #1] In Eastern-rite churches, the term eparchy is used.

Eastern-rite [Oriental] Church
The term used to describe the Catholic churches which developed in Eastern Europe, Asia, and Africa. The Eastern-rite churches have their own distinctive liturgical and organizational systems. Each is considered equal to the Latin rite within the Church.

Ecumenism/Ecumenical Movement
A movement for spiritual understanding and unity among Christians and their churches. The term is also extended to apply to efforts toward greater understanding and cooperation between Christians and members of other faiths.

Exarch/Exarchy
A church jurisdiction, similar to a diocese, established for Eastern-rite Catholics living outside their native land. The head of an exarchy, usually a bishop, is an exarch.

Hierarchy
In general, the term refers to the ordered body of clergy, divided into bishops, priests, and deacons. In Catholic practice, the term refers to the bishops of the world or of a particular region.

Holy Name Society
A lay organization which seeks to aid its memebers in living a genuinely Christian life. The society organizes retreats and other spiritual and devotional exercises.

Holy See
The term refers to the diocese of Rome. Used in reference to the governance of the Church, it refers to the Pontiff, the Roman Curia, and the Sacred College.

Knights of Columbus
A fraternal organization for Catholic men. Knights of Columbus engage in religious and charitable projects in the U.S., Canada, Puerto Rico, Mexico, and the Philippines.

Legion of Mary
A lay organization established to assist the clergy in the sanctification of its members' souls, and the spread of the Christian faith and spiritual service to others. Members participate in almost every form of social service and Catholic action, including evangelization. The organization was founded in 1921.

Metropolitan
The archbishop of an archdiocese in a province. He has limited supervisory powers and influence over the other dioceses and bishops in the province.

Military Ordinariate [Archdiocese for the Military Services, U.S.A.]
A nonterritorial diocese for American Catholics and their dependents who are in the military or affiliated with the armed forces. Personnel employed by or engaged in diplomatic missions for the U.S. government in countries where U.S. military forces are stationed also belong to the Military Ordinariate.

Mission

[Cf. c. 363; CLSA Comm., p. 302]

Parish

Most parishes are formed on a geographic basis, but they may be formed along national or ethnic lines.

The pastoral council's purpose is to study practical situations, difficulties and problems, and make concrete recommendations and proposals to the diocesan bishop. The pastoral council is always subject to the final authority of the pastor or bishop.

Patriarch
The Pope is the traditional "Patriarch of the West." All other bishops in the Latin Rite, even those with the honorary title of "Patriarch," are subject to him. Similarly, patriarchs within nations have only an honorary title unless special provisions are made otherwise. Eastern-rite Patriarchs are subject to the Pope while serving as heads of the faithful belonging to their rites throughout the world.

Personal Prelature
In addition to the territorial arrangement of the Church into particular or local churches or dioceses, canon law also provides for non-territorial areas of religious jurisdiction, incorporating secular clergy and deacons. Membership is also open to lay persons. These prelatures are established to meet specific pastoral or missionary needs at the regional, national, or international level without infringing on the rights of the local bishops. A prelature is presided over by a personal prelate, who is an ordinary with the right to establish seminaries and ordain priests as members of the prelature.

Canon law also allows for laity to be associated in the works of prelatures without being withdrawn from the jurisdiction of their own diocesan bishop.

Promoter of Justice
A cleric or lay person, holding a graduate degree in canon law, who is appointed by the diocesan bishop to serve in the role of a "prosecuting attorney" in trials of crimes against church law and of other judicial litigations in the diocese. A promoter of justice may be appointed for a specific case by the bishop.

Province
A defined geographic area containing an archdiocese, or Metropolitan See, and at least one diocese, or Suffragen See. The archbishop of the archdiocese has no direct powers over the Suffragen Sees, but does have limited advisory and appellate authority and obligations. The term also refers to a territorial grouping of particular churches or communities, or a territory of a religious order.

Provincial
The superior of the communities of a religious order that constitute a province.

Provincial Council
An assembly of the bishops of an ecclesiastical province, called by the metropolitan archbishop. The term is also used in reference to the provincial superior of a province, along with his or her chief advisors.

Can take two forms: baptism of those not previously validly baptized, or "reception into full communion" with the Church for those who have already been baptized, in which case a profession of faith affects the reception.

Religious Priest/Diocesan Priest
Religious, or regular, priests are those who are professed members of a religious order or institute. Religious clergy live according to the rule of their respective orders. In pastoral ministry, they are under the jurisdiction of their local bishop, as well as the superiors of their order. Diocesan, or secular, priests are under the direction of their local bishop. They commit to serving their congregations and other institutions.

Retreat
A period of time spent in meditation and religious exercise. Retreats may take various forms, from traditional closed forms, to open retreats, which do not disengage the participants from day-to-day life. Both clergy and lay people of all ages participate in retreats. Houses and centers providing facilities for retreats are retreat houses.

Scholastic
A member of a religious order who has completed his novitiate, but has not yet been ordained.

Scholastic Teaching
Usually refers to Scholastic Philosophy, which is the basis for much Catholic Theology. It comes from the "schools" of the 12th-13th centuries, St. Thomas Aquinas, St. Bonaventure, St. Albert the Great, etc. who developed "scholasticism" based mainly on Aristotle. It is the semi-official philosophy of the Church.

Secular Institute
Canonically erected institute of consecrated life for single laity and clerics who strive for the perfection of charity and work for the sanctification of the world while remaining in a lifestyle within the world.

See
The word is taken from the Latin word "sedes" ("seat"), and is used to denote a diocese or ecclesiastical district. The term Holy See is reserved to the diocese of Rome whose bishop is the Pope.

Seminary
An educational institution for men preparing for Holy Orders. The term originates from the time of St. Augustine, when those preparing for the priesthood were educated in the "cathedral school." During the Middle Ages, the clergy were educated in a university setting where faculties of philosophy, theology, and canon law existed. Eventually individual dioceses or provinces came to establish their own schools for educating their clerical students. Traditional seminaries date from the Council of Trent in the 16th century.

A school for the spiritual, academic, and pastoral education and formation of priesthood candidates is known as a major seminary in which the focus is on philosophical and theological education. To prepare for entrance into a major seminary, a period of study is set aside for the required courses in the humanities and the sciences in institutions called minor seminaries.

Serra Club
Local units of Serra International, an organization which promotes vocations to the priesthood and religious life, and offers instruction to lay leaders.

Sister
The term, in the strictest sense, refers to women religious who belong to institutes which have professed simple vows. However, in everyday usage, the term is used for any woman religious.

Sodality
A group of laity established for the promotion of Christian life and worship, or some other religious purpose.

Special Centers for Social Services
This would seem to overlap with Specialized Homes. Some of the categorization is fairly arbitrary. Catholic Charities might have its own proper distinctions for government or private funding purposes.

Specialized Homes
Includes such institutions as homes for handicapped (e.g., Misericordia Homes), youth homes (e.g., Maryville, Mercy Boys and Girls, Homes), homes for battered women, drug rehab centers, homes for unwed mothers, etc.

Superior
The head of a religious order or congregation. He or she may be the head of a province, or an individual house.

Synod
A gathering of designated officials and representatives of a church, that has legislative and policy-making powers.

1. Diocesan Synod
An advisory and consultative body, made up of priests, superiors representing religious orders, and laity, called by the bishop to recommend legislation and policies affecting the diocese. Bishops are required to call a diocesan synod every ten years.

2. Eastern-rite Synod
A gathering of bishops of a particular rite to conduct legislative or electoral business.

3. Special Synod

Titular See
A former diocese which no longer physically or geographically exists. Titular Sees are given as an honorary title to any bishop not serving as a chief pastor of a diocese, i.e., auxiliary bishops, papal representatives, and bishops of the Roman Curia.

Tribunal
A tribunal (court) is the name given to the person or persons who exercise the Church's judicial powers. By its very nature, this procedure involves the determination of a legal controversy. A major concern of tribunals is conducting the process leading to the dissolution or annulment of marriages. In ecclesiastical matters, definite procedural norms for conducting a trial are found in the Code of Canon Law to settle disputes. There are various grades of tribunals, including diocesan tribunals, the first court of trial for most cases; regional and metropolitan tribunals, located in an archdiocese, the appellate court for all cases tried within the province; and the tribunals of the Holy See, which act as the Church's central appellate court, try cases reserved to the Holy See, deal with questions of procedure and jurisdiction of the other courts, and act as the Church's supreme court.

United States Catholic Conference [USCC]
The civil corporation and executive agency of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. The USCC acts as the national public policy organization of the NCCB. Its purpose is to organize and promote Catholic activity in the U.S. and abroad, and to carry out the religious and social action of the Catholic Church in the U.S. The major departments are education, communication, and social development and world peace.

Vicar
The appointment of a priest or a bishop as an episcopal vicar is an option given to a diocesan bishop when he needs a deputy for governing a specific territory within the diocese, a group of persons or a specific rite, or a type of apostolic work within the diocese.

By Church law, the diocesan bishop is the judge of all cases in the diocesan tribunal of first trial. He must appoint a priest with ordinary power to judge cases not reserved to the bishop himself. This priest must have a graduate degree in canon law. He is called the judicial vicar, and is sometimes referred to as the chief judge or "officialis." He may be given another priest as an assistant with the title of adjutant judicial vicar.

A bishop or priest appointed to participate in the executive (administrative) governance of the diocese with executive jurisdiction as a deputy of the diocesan bishop is a vicar general. The appointment of a vicar general is mandatory for every diocese. This office is designed to facilitate and unify diocesan administration.

Vicar for Religious
A priest appointed by a bishop to act as his representative in dealing with the religious communities in his diocese.

PART I

Hierarchy of the Catholic Church

The Hierarchy, as the supreme governing body of the Catholic Church, consists of the Roman Pontiff, the successor of Peter, and the Bishops joined together with him and never without him (canons 330,331,336) in one apostolic college to provide for the common good of the Church. The Roman Pontiff in the exercice of his office is assisted by the College of Cardinals, and further by the departments also called "dicasteries" of the Roman Curia. The bishops, of whom some bear the titles of Patriarch and Archbishop, are united with the Roman Pontiff in the governance of the whole Church; the bishops, when assigned to particular Sees, are individually responsible for the teaching, sanctification and governance of their particular Church. Apostolic Vicars and Prefects together with certain Abbots and other Prelates are also joined in this work.

HIS HOLINESS THE POPE

BISHOP OF ROME AND VICAR OF JESUS CHRIST,
SUCCESSOR OF ST. PETER, PRINCE OF THE APOSTLES,
SUPREME PONTIFF OF THE UNIVERSAL CHURCH.
PATRIARCH OF THE WEST, PRIMATE OF ITALY.
ARCHBISHOP AND METROPOLITAN OF THE ROMAN PROVINCE, SOVEREIGN OF VATICAN CITY.

JOHN PAUL II

KAROL WOJTYLA

The present successor of St. Peter was born in Wadowice, Diocese of Krakow, May 18, 1920; ordained Priest, November 1, 1946; appointed Titular Bishop of Ombi July 4, 1958; Promoted to Archbishop of Krakow, January 13, 1964; Proclaimed and created Cardinal June 26, 1967. Elected Pope, October 16, 1978; installed October 22, 1978.

VATICAN CITY

Vatican City is the smallest state in the world, occupying 108.7 acres, of which about one third is covered with buildings and is situated on the right side of the Tiber river. Vatican City has territory, population, and sovereignity. This territory, limited as it is, suffices to guarantee the spiritual and temporal independence needed for the exercise of the Holy See's spiritual mission. In 1870 the Kingdom of Italy seized all Vatican possessions which for several centuries had constituted the papal temporal domain. But even after 1870 the Holy See continued to regard itself as a separate entity in international law, and was recognized as such by numerous states with which it retained normal diplomatic relations. After long discussions the Holy See and the then Kingdom of Italy signed the Lateran Pacts on February 11, 1929, so the complete and independent authority of the Vatican State is recognized by the Italian state.

The Sovereign of this small state is His Holiness, the Pope.

The government presently is administered by a Pontifical Commission of which His Eminence Jose Cardinal Castillo Lara is President.

THE COLLEGE OF CARDINALS

The Cardinals constitute a special college and they assist the Roman Pontiff collegialy when they are called together to deal with questions of major importance; they do so individually when they assist the Pope especially in the daily care of the universal Church by means of the different offices which they perform (canons 349-350). The Cardinals who are under eighty years of age elect his successor.

The College of Cardinals is divided into three ranks: Cardinal-Bishops, Cardinal-Priests, and Cardinal-Deacons. The College of Cardinals, when complete formerly consisted of 70 members: 6 Cardinal Bishops, 50 Cardinal Priests and 14 Cardinal Deacons, but the late Pontiffs, Pope John XXIII and Pope Paul VI enlarged the College of Cardinals. At the moment the maximum number of Cardinal electors (those under 80 years of age) must not exceed 120.

The Cardinal Bishops (except the Patriarch-Cardinals of the Oriental Rites), have as Titular Sees the Suburban Sees of Rome, which are: Porto Santa Rufina, Albano, Palestrina, Sabina, Frascati, Velletri, Segni. The Cardinal Dean has united to his See the See of Ostia. The Cardinal Priests take their title from the "Titular Churches" to which they are appointed: the Cardinal Deacons are appointed to other Churches called "Deaconries." The first Cardinal Bishop is Dean; the first Cardinal Priest is First Priest; and the first Cardinal Deacon is First Deacon of the Sacred College. The Dean has the right of ordaining the new Pope if he is not already a bishop; the First Deacon the right of proclaiming him and investing him with the sacred Pallium. On the death of the Pontiff, the Cardinal Camerlengo has the Administration of the affairs of the Holy See.

Sometimes the Roman Pontiff promotes a person to the dignity of Cardinal but does not make public his name and keeps it "in pectore". Upon the publication of his name, this Cardinal enjoys his right of precedence from the day on which his name was reserved "in pectore" by the Pope (cfr. Can. 351 3).

The Roman Curia

The present norms regarding the Roman Curia were publicly announced June 28, 1988, in the "Pastor Bonus - Constitutio Apostolica de Romana Curia", and published in A.A.S. LXXX/1988, Commentarium Officiale; pp. 841-934. "The Supreme Pontiff usually conducts business of the universal Church by means of the Roman Curia, which fulfills its duty in his name and by his authority for the good and the service of the Churches; it consists of the Secretariat of State or the Papal Secretariat, congregations, tribunals and other institutions, whose structure and competency are defined in special law(can. 360). The Roman curia is the complex of departments and institutes which assist the Roman Pontiff in the exercise of his supreme pastoral function for the good and service of the universal Church and of the particular churches, by which the unity of faith and communion of the people of God is strengthened and the mission is promoted which is proper to the Church in the world.

I. THE SECRETARIAT OF STATE TO HIS HOLINESS

The Secretariat of State

The Secretariat of State closely assists the Supreme Pontiff in the exercise of his supreme function. The cardinal secretary of state presides over it. It includes two sections, namely the section for general affairs under the immediate direction of the substitute, assisted by an assessor, and the section for relations with states under the direction of its own secretary, with the assistance of a subsecretary. Attached to this latter section is a body of cardinals and some bishops.

Secretary of State: His Eminence Angelo Cardinal Sodano

Office: Apostolic Palace, 00120 Vatican City State, Europe.

First Section: for General Affairs

The first section handles anything entrusted to it by the Holy Father, as well as matters of daily business which do not fall within the competence of other dicasteries. It fosters relations with these departments, with the bishops, and with the diplomatic missions of the Holy See.

Substitute: Archbishop Giovanni Battista Re

Assessor: Rev. Msgr. Leonardo Sandri

Second Section: for Relations with States

The second section of the Secretariat of State handles all matters pertaining to civil governments, fostering diplomatic relations with nations, and maintaining contact with all the diplomatic missions of the Holy See. It takes care also of what concerns the presence and activity of the Holy See in international institutes.

Secretary: Archbishop Jean-Louis Tauran

Under-Secretary: Rev. Msgr. Claudio Maria Celli

II. THE CONGREGATIONS

The departments are juridically equal among themselves. Attached to the institutes of the Roman curia are the Prefecture of the Papal Household and the Office of Liturgical Celebrations of the Supreme Pontiff.

The Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith

The proper function of the Congregation on the Doctrine of the Faith is to promote and safeguard the doctrine of faith and morals in the whole Catholic world; therefore those things belong to it which touch this matter in any way. Fulfilling the function of promoting doctrine, it fosters studies in order that the understanding of the faith might grow and that a response can be prepared under the light of faith for new questions arising from developments in science and human culture. It is a help to bishops, whether individually or gathered in assemblies, in the exercise of the function by which they are constituted authentic teachers and doctors of the faith as well as the office by which they are held to safeguard and promote the integrity of that faith. This Sacred Congregation reproves doctrines opposed to the principles of the faith after the interested Bishops of a region have been heard. It studies the books referred to it and, if necessary, reproves them after the author has been heard and has had an opportunity to defend himself and after the Ordinary has been forewarned. It also examines whatever concerns "the privilege of the faith" whether in law and in fact. It is competent to pass judgement on errors about the faith according to the norms of an ordinary process. It safeguards the dignity of the sacrament of Penance. The Congregation proceeds administratively or judicially according to the nature of the question to be treated.

Territories in which a major part of the Christians belong to Oriental rites are subject only to this Congregation. Even in Latin territories it carefully supervises the faithful of Oriental rites and provides as much as possible for their spiritual needs even by the establishment of their own hierarchy if the number of faithful and circumstances require this.

With the many functions, the Apostolic Signatura judges the matters assigned to it in the Code of Canon Law; it prorogues the competence of tribunals; it extends the forum for strangers in Rome to cases of matrimonial nullity in extraordinary circumstances and for grave reasons; it supervises the proper administration of justice; it provides for the establishment of regional and interregional tribunals; it enjoys the rights assigned to it in concordats between the Holy See and the various nations.
The Tribunal settles questions about the exercise of administrative ecclesiastical power which are referred to it. It also passes on conflicts of competence among the departments of the Holy See; it examines administrative matters referred to it by the Congregations of the Roman Curia as well as questions committed to it by the Holy Father.
Pro-Prefect: Most Rev. Archbishop Gilberto Agustoni

Tribunal of the Roman Rota

This tribunal acts as a higher instance at the Apostolic See, usually in the grade of appeal, for safeguarding rights in the Church; it fosters the unity of jurisprudence and, through its own sentences, is a help to lower tribunals. It is also a court of first instance for cases specified in the law and for others committed to the Rota by the Roman Pontiff. The greater part of its decisions concern the nullity of marriage. In such cases its competence includes marriages between two Catholics, between a Catholic and non-Catholic, and between two non-Catholic parties whether one or both of the baptized parties belongs to a Latin or Oriental rite.

PART II
The Catholic Church in the United States

The organizational structure of the Catholic Church in the United States consists of 33 Provinces with as many Archdioceses (Metropolitan Sees); 148 Suffragan Sees (Dioceses); The Military Archdiocese; four Eastern-Rite jurisdictions immediately subject to the Holy See in Rome. The Eparchies of St. Maron (Maronites), Newton (Melkites), St. Thomas the Apostle of Detroit (Chaldeans) and St. George Martyr of Canton, Ohio (Romanians). Each of these jurisdictions is under the direction of an Archbishop and Bishop called an Ordinary, who has apostolic responsibility and authority for the pastoral service of the people in his care.

The structure includes the territorial espiscopal conference known as the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. In and through this body, which is strictly ecclesiastical and has defined juridical authority, the Bishops exercise their collegiate pastorate over the Church in the entire country.

Related to the NCCB is the United States Catholic Conference, a civil corporation and operational secretariat through which the Bishops, in cooperation with other members of the Church, act on a wider-than-ecclesiastical scale for the good of the Church and society in the United States.

The following is a list of the thirteen regions in the United States and provinces within those regions.

National Conference of Catholic Bishops

Address—3211 Fourth St. Washington DC 20017-1194
Tel: 202-541-3000

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops (NCCB) is a canonical entity operating in accordance with the Conciliar Decree Christus Dominus. Its purpose is to foster the Church's mission by providing the Bishops of the United States of America with an opportunity to exchange views and insights of prudence and experience and to exercise in a joint manner their pastoral office. (cf. Christus Dominus, # 38). The NCCB is the successor to the Annual Meeting of the Bishops of the United States, approved in the brief "Communes" issued by Pope Benedict XV, April 10, 1919 and in a special letter of Pius XI issued on August 10, 1927. The present NCCB statutes with some slight amendment are those originally approved by the Sacred Consistorial Congregation in a decree issued on June 22, 1922.

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops is composed of every Bishop, residential or titutlar, who serves the Church in the United States, its territories or possessions. Each Bishop has an active and passive voice in the Conference. Under certain conditions, enunciated in conciliar legislation, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops can initiate actions that are juridically binding on all the bishops of the country.

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops is presided over by a president who is elected by the general membership. Other officers of the organization are a vice president, secretary, treasurer and general secretary. The National Conference of Catholic Bishops is a distinct entity from the United States Catholic Conference. Its relationship to the USCC is that of a sponsoring organization.

The goal of this organization is to provide parishes and dioceses with a Total Stewardship Process called The Christian Celebration of Life (CCL), an integrated, comprehensive, systematically carried out formation of the lay faithful in Evangelization, Discipleship and Stewardship. The NCCTS achieves its goal by conducting Schools of Evangelization for bishops, priests, deacons, religious and laity and by working with them to implement The CCL in the local church. Formation centers on presenting a catechesis on lifestyle, spirituality, work, ecology, ecclesiology and eschatology. Formation takes place on five levels: Leadership Training, accomplished through conferences, workshops and following the directives found in the Total Stewardship Manual; Main Matrix, a Marian group of 12-15 select persons who take responsibility to generate Christ in the parish through The CCL and through establishment of Small Ecclesial Communities called Associate Matrices; Stewardship of Time and Talent, a six-week catechesis on ministry for the non-ordained; Home Visitation and Evangelization for Community Building; and Stewardship of Treasure, The Eucharist, a seven-week catechesis on Eucharist, the source and center of holiness, with tithing introduced in an eucharistic context, celebrating Giving in Thanksgiving as an act of worship. As integrated evangelization, the CCL satisfies the hunger for holiness of God's people, and brings unity to disparate church ministries.
